PREFACE BY THE COMPILER.

The work of compiling the Genealogy of a Family which covers a space of more than two hundred and fifty years, containing a record of nine generations, is no slight one, as all who have made the attempt, even upon a narrower basis, will bear witness. The compiler has given to the work a large part of seven years, all the time that could possibly be spared from the demands of his parochial labors as a clergyman in active service. No one can be more conscious of the imperfections of the work than the author himself. These imperfections are due partly to the nature of things. In two centuries and a half many records of individuals and families have been entirely lost and could not be recovered; in other cases where names were found dates were often missing. Again, the indifference of many to the work, where information could be given, but the slight trouble would not be taken, has contributed to an imperfect record in many cases. Of more than a thousand letters written in the interest of the work, scarcely one-half were answered. In most instances in which genealogies have been compiled, ample means were placed by those interested in the hands of the compiler to make investigations, and in some instances to give their whole time to the work, but such has not been the case with the compiler of the present work, but he has been compelled to work, if he worked at all, with the slight means at his command. Where so many are depended upon for information, there is a chance for mistakes to be made, and although the utmost pains were taken, these mistakes may sometimes be found in the work. Oftentimes two members of the same family have given differing names and dates. The compiler has earnestly and conscientiously sought to make the record of the family as nearly correct as possible, and it is believed that the record herein contained is that of a large majority of the family in America, both of the dead and living.

One thing has been to the advantage of the author; it has been pretty surely proved that all of the name in America have descended from one single source,—William Goodhue, of Ipswich, Mass., who came from England, 1635. Only in one small branch, containing a few families, the connecting links could not be found, although there is but little doubt but that they all belong to the same family.

The compiler would express his gratitude to those who have assisted in the work. He has been especially indebted to Seth Goodhue, of Wilmot, N. H. At an early date he became interested in the work, and no one has done as much as he in visiting Ipswich, Salem, Newburyport, and many other towns in the interest of the work. He searched the town and county records of those places at a large expense of time and money, and gathered much material. At his own expense he obtained from England a copy of the Coat of Arms, which is to be found in the book. Also, thanks are especially due to Mrs. Carrie A. (Goodhue) Gardner, of Boston, Mass., formerly of Stockton, Me., who collected much matter for the work, and arranged what she collected in a skillful and intelligible manner. And thanks are due to others who showed an interest in the work and assisted. In compilation the author made use of a small pamphlet published about 1833, by Stephen Goodhue, of West Newton, Mass., which was a genealogy of one small branch of the family down to that date; also of a manuscript, compiled, as is supposed, by Jonathan Goodhue, of New York, after a visit to England in 1830, which contains the most of the history of the family in England which is found in this book. Quotations have also been made from the History of Essex, by D. Choate, 1868.

It was contemplated in beginning of the work to insert only the families of the name Goodhue, and the children and grandchildren of these families of whatever name, but in course of time this idea was abandoned, and the names of all descendants sent in, of any generation, were inserted, although not much effort was made to obtain the names other than Goodhue, beyond the third generation.

No names have been inserted but those whose pedigree could be traced. Two or three families of the name, in Northern Illinois, could not trace their descent, and their names are not inserted. Some material was sent in after the most of the book was in print, and too late for insertion. The most of this material is placed by itself after the Index.

By the Index any one can easily trace their descent by the Family Number in brackets referring to the family of their parents preceding.

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

THE FAMILY IN ENGLAND.

The earliest date to which the Goodhue family has been traced in England is 1280 A. D. In the eighth year of Edward I. we find the names of Wills Godhewen and Robs Godhewen (William and Robert Goodhue), both of the County of Kent. In the same reign John Goodhugh (Johes Goodhug), of the County of Essex, is mentioned. In the year 1306 mention is made of Hugo Goodhugh (Hugh Goodhugh), also of Essex, who was a member of Parliament for the County of Essex. The name is evidently of Saxon origin. The first syllable of the name, god, was the Saxon for good; as Godwin, now written Goodwin; Godale, now Goodale; Godyear, now Goodyear, and many others. The syllables en and wyn were common terminations of Saxon surnames, hence we have Godhewyn, afterwards written Godhew, Godyer, Godhill, and many others.

In the "Index Nominum" of that period, Vol. II, we find a large number of names beginning with the syllable God but afterwards written Good; among these was Godhewen, Godhewyn, Godyer, Godhill, and many others.

It seems quite probable from all that can be learned, that the William Goodhue who came from England to America in 1635 or 1636, and settled in Ipswich, Mass., was a descendant of Wills Godhewen of Kent, mentioned above. His name William, his origin from Kent, and the fact that in his day the name was frequently written Goodhew, are evidences of some weight. The Goodhews and Goodhughs found in England in more modern times have without much doubt the same origin, as we do not find a single one of either name in any other county than Kent, after the time of Hugh Goodhugh of Essex, in 1306. It is not ascertained that any one in England ever wrote the name GOODHUE, but Goodhew or Goodhugh, as it is often written in some of the earliest records and legal documents, and in the early family records in this country prior to 1700.

Upon the headstone of the grave of William Goodhue in Essex, Mass. (Chebacco), who was the son of William Goodhue, the first immigrant of the name, the name is spelled Goodhew.

The opinion has prevailed in some quarters that the family originated in the west of England, but this is undoubtedly an error, as for several centuries back none of the name has been found in any other county than Kent. The error probably arose from confounding the name with that of Goodyer, which is common in other counties.

Robert Goodhew and William Goodhew of 1280 were agriculturists. Hugh Goodhugh of Essex is called "manecupator" of Rodolphus Le Bigot, Knight of the Shire, returned for Essex, 34 Edw. I.

In more modern times Lambert's Land, Homehill, Kent, is mentioned as let to John Goodhew for £12-2d. per ann. John Goodhew is mentioned as Provost of Wye College, Kent, in 1511.

William Goodhew, Esq., died at Counter Hill, near Deptford, Jan. 18, 1790, in his 63d year. His son, William Goodhew, Esq., a deputy lieutenant and acting magistrate for Kent, died Feb. 1, 1813, at Deptford. At his death the male branch of that family became extinct. Robert Goodhugh of Tunbridge, yeoman, gave by will to the poor of that parish 30s. per ann. forever. Richard Goodhugh, also of Tunbridge, was sheriff in 1697.

Says Jonathan Goodhue of New York, who visited England in 1830 and made extensive and careful enquiries: "About a mile from Seale Church, in Kent, stands an ancient country seat called STONEPIT, which was formerly the seat of the Tybolds or Theobolds, who possessed it in the reign of Queen Elizabeth; it afterwards passed into the hands of the Piers family. Sir George Piers, Baronet, who possessed it, died 1720. Soon after the place passed, by purchase, into the hands of Richard Goodhue, Esq.; from him, through his daughter, it was inherited by Richard Round, and in 1820 was still in possession of some of the descendants of Richard Goodhugh, Esq.

Also the Manor of Spelhurst, in the reign of Edward III., was in possession of Sir John De Pultney, lord of the neighboring Manor of Penhurst. After several intermediate owners it came into the name Goodhugh, and in the latter end of the reign of George I. was possessed by Richard Goodhugh, Esq. It passed from the name by a female heir, Sarah Goodhugh, daughter of said Richard, who married Richard Round, Esq., whose son, Richard Round of Stonepit, in Seale, died possessed of it. It then passed into the possession of his heirs.

William Goodhew, Esq., who died at Counter Hill, Kent, in 1790, left two daughters, one of whom married Peter Lafosse, Esq., a man of considerable importance in society. The other married Lient. Archer of the 16th Light Dragoons, 1791; but after his decease she married Col. Palmer. William Goodhugh of 39 Crawford St., Montague Square, London, is spoken of as a man of considerable attainments in literature, being skilled in Syric, Arabic and modern languages. He was living in 1830. His father's name was also William and was born in Kent in 1771. He possessed considerable property.

From the 'Gentlemen's Magazine,' Jan. 18, 1791, we have as follows: "Died at Counter Hill near Deptford in his 63d year, William Goodhew, Esq. Feb. 15, 1791, married, Peter Lafosse of Broadstreet to Miss Goodhew, and Lient. Archer of the 16th Reg. Light Dragoons to Miss Anne Goodhew."

From the Monthly Magazine, Feb. 1st, 1813, "DEATHS." "At Deptford, William Goodhew, Esq.—a Deputy Lient. and Acting Magistrate for Kent."

The family of William Goodhew mentioned, who died 1790, consisted of the son William and the two daughters mentioned above.

William Goodhugh of 39 Crawford St., visited Deptford in 1820, but found none of the family remaining there. One of the daughters was residing in Sussex; the other, the wife of Col. Palmer, in a distant part of Kent. The son William died in 1813 without family.

The name Goodhew was well known in Deptford as they were the more gay and fashionable people in the town. The house at Counter Hill which they occupied is a large and commodious brick mansion, commanding a delightful view of the surrounding country and in their time was elegantly furnished. They kept a large number of servants, carriages, horses, etc. Both, father and son were Magistrates of the County. William Goodhugh, of 39 Crawford St., said that his father once had a conversation with the Goodhews of Deptford and learned from them that they traced their family back several centuries.

From Smollet's History of England: "At the same time the ships from France brought over to Pondicherry the Lieut. Goodhew, Commissary General and Governor General of all their settlements, at whose arrival Duplex departed for Europe, 1752."

THE FAMILY ARMS.

During the war of the Revolution, a privateer, a brigantine named 'The Fancy' sailed from Salem, Mass., to attack British commerce. Among the crew was a young man named Daniel Goodhue from Salem. After various successes the privateer was captured by a British man of war Aug. 7, 1777, and all on board were taken to Plymouth, Eng., and placed in prison and confined there till the close of the war. Several of the crew died in prison, but Daniel Goodhue survived and at the close of the war was liberated and returned to America. Being a man of intelligence and some education he made search and found and brought home with him the oldest coat of arms granted to any branch of the Goodhue family of which we have any record. Dates and other circumstances seem to point to Lieut. Goodhew, who was appointed in 1752 Commissary and Governor General of Pondicherry and other places when captured by the English from the French. For his services he was probably ennobled with the title Viscount. Of these arms we have but a bare outline. The copy brought from England was preserved many years among his descendants but was accidentally mutilated and much of the description lost. The description that remains is as follows: "This armer appertaineth to the name of Goodhew, being first granted to Lord Viscount Goodhew of the west of England in the year 1565." An effort has been made to verify these arms at the Herald Office in London but without avail. Still we have reason to think they are authentic, and if so we have arms granted to a branch of the family some two hundred years prior to those granted in 1738.

In investigations at the Herald's office at Doctors Commons, near St. Pauls, London, Eng., there were found no distinctive arms of the Goodhew or Goodhugh families prior to the emigration of William Goodhue to America in 1636, but it appears that some of the name had been accustomed to bear the arms of the Goodyere family and it is possible both families may have been derived from the same source. But we have record of arms granted to one branch of the family in 1738 and to another branch in 1790. The arms of 1738 are those granted on the petition of William Goodhew, Esq., of the Parish of St. Pauls, Deptford, son and heir of Wm. Goodhew of Suttan at Hine, near Dartford, in Kent, with the exception of the Crest. This Crest is very ancient and had been used in the Goodhew family for a long period. The arms granted to a branch of the family in 1790 are displayed on a China bowl and pitcher sent to Jonathan Goodhue of New York City in 1820 by William Goodhugh of 39 Crawford St., London, Eng., who became possessed of them at an auction sale in that family at Deptford in 1813. This bowl and pitcher may possibly be still in possession of some branch of the family in New York.

The arms of 1790 are described as follows: "Or on a chevron between three Griffins heads, erased Gules, a swan's neck also erased, ducally gorged gold; on each side of the field a Bee volant; crest a young shepherd leaning on the stump of a tree playing the flute, his dog by his side; motto, Dieu Avec Nous (God with us). Of the arms granted in Aug. 22, 1738, on petition of Mary Goodhugh, widow of Richard Goodhugh of Under River in the Parish of Seale, in the County of Kent, son of Richard Goodhugh, Esq., sometime High Sheriff of said County, deceased, and eldest daughter of Richard Hills of Under River aforesaid, also deceased," we have the following description: "Gules; a chevron vaire between three Talbots passant; argent; Crest of adoption, a Talbot as in the Arms; motto, "Nec invidis, nec despicio."

THE GOODHUE FAMILY IN AMERICA.

In Nov. 1635, the Rev. Nathaniel Rogers, formerly of Assington, Suffolk, Eng., came to America. About the same time, either the same year or the year following, 1636, William Goodhue also came over, then a young man of about twenty-four years of age. They settled in Ipswich in the colony of Mass. In 1638, Rev. Nathl. Rogers was chosen colleague of Rev. John Norton, minister of the first church in Ipswich. William Goodhue was chosen deacon of the same church. By history he is declared to have been a man of more than average intelligence, of deep practical piety and of the highest integrity and wisdom. For many years he served the town of Ipswich in various civil capacities such as Moderator, Selectman, Representative to the Colonial Legislature. He died at an advanced age in 1699. He was four times married; first, before he left England, to Margery Watson, of Kent, which no doubt had been his former residence and native place. His young wife did not long survive the hardships of the voyage and residence in a new and strange land. She was the mother of two sons and one daughter, the only children of William Goodhue. After the decease of his first wife, Margery, he married the widow Mary Webb. After her decease he married the widow Bethiah Grafton, whose first husband, Thos. Lathrop, having been killed by the Indians in 1675. She then became the wife of Jos. Grafton and after his decease, latterly of William Goodhue. She died at Ipswich 1688. After her decease he married the widow Remember Fisk, of Wenham, in 1689, who survived him and died at Ipswich Feb. 16, 1701-2.

From "The Hammatt Papers," concerning the early inhabitants of Ipswich, Mass., William Goodhue took the Freeman's oath Dec. 7, 1636. He had a house lot in Ipswich in 1635 and afterward much other land by grant and purchase. In 1639 there was granted to William Goodhue six acres of planting ground on the south side of the town river, butting on the same river on the northwest and upon meadow grounds of John Perkins, Jr., southeast, having a planting lot of Matthias Buttons on the east and a planting lot of John Perkins on the west. Also six acres of land lying on the town river about half a mile above the mill, having a parcel of ground of Thomas Bird's on the east and a planting lot of Henry Archers on the north, and ten acres of land granted to Nathaniel Bishop on the south. Also a parcel of land about two miles up the town river encompassed on the southeast and southwest by the river, and running from the east from a dry pit to the west, etc., 26 acres more or less. Also he is possessed of a house lot, being about three roods of ground lying in the street called the 'East End,' bounded by said street on the southeast, having a house lot of John Winthrop on the southwest and a house lot formerly granted to Robert Cole and now in possession of Isaac Cummings on the northeast. This house lot he bought of Robert Cole, entered on the town book the 9th day of 2d month, 1639. 1644, Feb. 7, granted to William Goodhue, eight acres of marsh and four of upland. 1646, April 5th, he purchased of John Newman a house in Brook Street, alias HOG LANE, between the dwelling house of Francis Jordan and Joseph Morse. In the deed which was acknowledged April 19, 1649, he is styled William Goodhue, weaver. In 1649 he possessed a house lot at the east end of High Street, near the river, adjoining a house lot of Mr. John Winthrop, and also a house with six acres of land which his father-in-law Watson purchased for him of Doctor Giles Firman, after Doctor Firman returned to England. Mr. Goodhue seems to have possessed considerable property and to have attained to rank and influence. He was a Commoner in 1641; one of Maj. Denison's subscribers; of the 27 who paid the highest taxes in 1664; selectman in 1658; representative to General Court eight years between 1666 and 1683.

From the town records of Ipswich, Nov. 6, 1685: "Agreed, with respect to the Reverend Mr. Cobbitt's funeral. That Deaken Goodhue provide one barrel of wine and half a hundred weight of sugar, and that he send it to Mr. Cobbitt's house next second day of the week, in the morning, for which he is to have in pay, not money, four shillings to the gallon and sixpence a pound for the sugar. That Mr. Rust provide, if he can, against the funeral gloves, suitable for men and women, to the value of five or six pounds not money and some spice and ginger for the syder. That a man be sent to Lyn to acquaint friends with the solemn providence here. That some persons be appointed to look to the burning of the wine and heating of the syder against the time appointed for the funeral, next Monday at one of the clock, and such as will be careful in the distribution. Total expense, £17, 19s.

The children of William Goodhue were Joseph, William 2d, and Mary. Joseph, the eldest child, while still quite young, became Deacon of First Church and colleague with his father. The office of deacon at that time was one of no small importance and honor. William, the second child, became a resident of that part of Ipswich called 'Chebacco,' now the town of Essex. He became deacon of the Second Church which was in that part of Ipswich. Both sons were leading men in the community where they resided and were prominent in civil affairs, as their father had been before them.

In the history of Essex by D. Choate, 1868, p. 97, we are told that: "On the death of Charles II., James II. ascended the throne. In his reign Sir Edmund Andros was appointed governor of all the New England colonies. In 1687 he caused a tax to be laid upon the people of the Massachusetts Colony of one penny on a pound, which was a violation of their charter rights and their rights as Englishmen, not to be taxed without their own consent in a legislative assembly. The minister of 'Chebacco' (Essex), went with two of his parishioners, John Andrews, Sen. and William Goodhue, 2d, to the center of the town to confer with their friends there upon the subject. A meeting for consultation was held at the house of John Appleton. At that meeting, after much patriotic discourse flowing from hearts glowing with the flame of liberty, it was determined that it was not the duty of the town to aid in assessing and collecting this illegal tax. In a general town meeting the next day, Aug. 23, 1687, which had been called for this purpose, remarks were freely made to this effect by several, Rev. Mr. Wise in particular, who made a bold and impressive speech in which he urged his townsmen to their privileges, for "they had a good God and a good King to protect them." A report of Rev. Mr. Wise's doings and the action of the town was made to the Governor and the consequence was that he and five others, John Andrews, William Goodhue, Robert Kinsman, John Appleton and Thos. French, were arrested and committed to the jail in Boston, being denied the privilege of giving bonds for their appearance in court. They were all tried, found guilty of contempt and high misdemeanor and kept in prison twenty one days longer. John Wise was suspended from the ministerial function, sentenced to pay a fine of £50, and give bonds in the sum of £1,000 for good behavior one year. Wm. Goodhue was fined £20 and sentenced to give bonds in the sum of £500 and pay costs. Here we see almost the first outbreak of that spirit which a little less than a hundred years later separated the colonies from their mother country and achieved their independence. These fines were afterwards paid by the town of Ipswich.

As another instance of the sturdy independence and character of these first settlers, we have from the same history the account of the formation of a new religious society in that part of the town called 'Chebacco' where Wm. Goodhue 2d, resided. It was a long distance for the inhabitants of that part of the town called 'Chebacco' to go to attend "meeting," and hence a move was made to form a new church. Accordingly, in Feb., 1676, a meeting was held for consultation at the house of Wm. Cogswell. At this meeting the inhabitants of Chebacco drew up a petition to the town of Ipswich for liberty to call a minister; but the town would not grant it. They then carried their petition to the General Court. The Court refused to grant their petition, but recommended them to make further application to the town. In the next town meeting, held Feb. 19, 1677, the town voted that the Selectmen should confer with the petitioners. The inhabitants of Chebacco selected as their committee of conference Wm. Cogswell, Wm. Goodhue, John Andrews and Thomas Low; but the conference was without any decisive result. The inhabitants of Chebacco determined to call a minister whether permission was granted or not and proceeded to do so. Finding no private house large enough to hold their congregation, they agreed to build a plain house to be used as a "meeting-house" if leave could be obtained, if not to be devoted to some other purpose. Application was made to the Court by those who were opposed to building for an injunction. The Court decided that Chebacco should desist from all further proceedings in the matter, and sent an order to the men of Chebacco to that effect. But before they had received this order they had already laid the sills of the meeting-house on the land of Wm. Cogswell, and had prepared the remainder of the timbers ready for raising. But as the order was only to the men of Chebacco, some women, among whom was Hannah Goodhue, wife of Deacon Wm. Goodhue, 2d, without the knowledge of their husbands went on horseback to neighboring towns and obtained assistance in raising the frame of the house. On the next Tuesday, 1679, the constable came down from Ipswich with the following warrant: "To the constable of Ipswich. You are hereby required to attach the body of Abraham Martin and John Chub and bring them before me on Tuesday next, about one of the clock, to answer for their contempt of authority in helping to raise a meeting-house at Chebacco. You are also at the same time to bring with you the wife of William Goodhue, the wife of Thomas Varney and the wife of Abraham Martin, for procuring, or abetting and encouraging the raising the said house, and so make return hereof under your hand."

They were accordingly tried, convicted and bound over to the next term of the court at Salem; but the case was brought before the General Court, May, 28, 1679, which ordered them to appear at the Salem Court and make acknowledgment of wrong doing, say they were sorry and pray to be forgiven, and so doing to be dismissed without further trouble or charge, which they did and were discharged.

But the meeting-house was built and used, and not long after they obtained leave to call a minister of their own, and they accordingly called the Rev. John Wise, a man of learning, wit, and courage and great physical strength. He was foremost in protesting against the action of Governor Andros in taxing the Colony without their consent.

The second church of Ipswich, situated in that part of the town called Chebacco was separated by act of incorporation as a Parish in 1679, and the church was organized Sept. 6, 1681. Its first pastor was the Rev. John Wise, and one of the first deacons was William Goodhue, 2d. In 1819 Chebacco was set off from Ipswich and incorporated as the town of Essex.

OF THE

GOODHUE FAMILY.

FAMILY 1.

1. William Goodhue, born in England 1612-13; emigrated to America 1635-6. Before leaving England he married Margery Watson of Kent, which was probably his native place. She died at Ipswich, Mass., Aug. 28, 1668. She was the mother of all his children, two sons and one daughter.

His second wife was the widow, Mary Webb, whom he married at Ipswich Feb. 7, 1669-70. She died at Ipswich Sept. 7, 1680. July 26, 1682, he married the widow, Bethiah Grafton, who d. Dec. 6, 1688. In 1689 he married Remember Fisk of Wenham, Mass., who survived her husband and died at Ipswich Feb. 16, 1701-2.

In his advanced years William Goodhue gave up his place in Ipswich to his oldest son, Joseph, and went to live with his son William at that part of Ipswich then called Chebacco (now Essex), where he died 1699-1700.

His Children.

2. JOSEPH, born at Ipswich, 1639.
3. WILLIAM, " " 1645.
4. MARY, " "

FAMILY 2.

2. Joseph Goodhue [1], b. in 1639 at Ipswich. July 13, 1661, he mar. Sarah Whipple, daughter of Elder John Whipple, who was one of the elders of the church. She was born in 1641, and was a woman of rare intelligence and devoted piety. In an instrument executed on the day of marriage by Wm. Goodhue, Senior, and Margery his wife, and by John Whipple and Sarah his wife, in pursuance of an agreement previously made, Joseph Goodhue enters into possession of his father's farm and is declared to be entitled to his father's dwelling house and lot after the death of him and his wife, and 22 acres of salt marsh which had been bought with £10 of the £25 sent by Joseph's grandfather Watson from England in 1646. John Whipple gives to his daughter £40, and at his death is to receive £30 more, and an equal share with his other daughters of his household stuff. This instrument was signed by John Rogers as witness, who was afterwards President of Harvard College. Mrs. Sarah (Whipple) Goodhue died at Ipswich July 23, 1681. She left a farewell address to her husband, children and friends in very pious and affectionate terms (see Appendix A). In this address she speaks of her father and mother as still living, but it seems she must have had reference to her husband's father and mother, in the intercourse with whom she appears to have been on the most intimate and affectionate terms.

Joseph Goodhue, after the loss of his wife Sarah, mar. the widow Rachel Todd, Oct. 15, 1684, who died at Ipswich 1691. He was a third time mar. to the widow Mercy ^(Barnes) Clarke, July 4, 1692. He died at Ipswich Sept. 2, 1697, aged 58. At the time of his death he was Moderator, Selectman, Assessor, and Representative to the Gen. Court, and also Deacon of the First Church.

His Children.

By first marriage.

5. JOSEPH, b. May 13, 1662 ; d. young, unmarried.
6. MARY, b.
7. SARAH, b.
8. MARGERY, no record.
9. SUSANNAH, b.
10. ELIZABETH, b.
11. JOHN, b. 1679.
12. HANNAH, b. July 20, 1681.
13. WILLIAM, b. 1666.

By second marriage.

14. EBENEZER, b. July 25, 1685.
15. JOSEPH, b. 1687.
16. BENJAMIN, b. Jan. 25, 1690; d. Dec. 3, 1697.

By third marriage.

17. SAMUEL, b. April 6, 1696.

FAMILY 3.

3. William Goodhue [1], b. 1645 at Ipswich, Mass. M. Nov. 14, 1666, Hannah Dane, daughter of Rev. Francis Dane of Andover, Mass. William Goodhue, 2nd. resided in that part of Ipswich called "Chebacco." He was sometimes called Capt. Goodhue. He was deacon of the church at Chebacco of which Rev. John Wise was pastor. He was at various times selectman of the town and representative to the Gen. Court. As already stated in the history of the family, he was one of those who were imprisoned and fined by Gov. Andros for protesting against an illegal taxation of the Colony. He was a prominent man in the community in which he lived, highly respected, eminently useful, and greatly beloved. He died Oct. 12, 1712. (For his will see Appendix B.) He lived upon a farm which his father bought for £265 of John Baker, Thos. Knowlton and John Knowlton, Sept. 10, 1666; this he conveyed to his son, William, as a gift, May 1, 1686; it was described as a farm, dwelling-house, and other edifices, orchards, gardens, etc., eighty-two acres, more or less. March 18, 1704, the town made him a grant of land as an indemnity for the losses and injuries he sustained under Gov. Andros. He was buried in the burial ground at Chebacco, now Essex. The epitaph upon the headstone of his grave reads as follows: "Here lies ye body of Capt. William Goodhew, aged 67, who deceased ye 12 of Oct. 1712." FAMILY 180.

396. Jonathan Goodhue [87], b. June 21, 1783; m. April 24, 1813, Catharine Rutherford Clarkson, of New York City, daughter of Gen. Clarkson. In early life, 1807, he became a resident of New York City. By commerce and trade he acquired a large fortune, and was called one of the princely merchants of New York. He was noted for his integrity and simplicity of character as well as his public spirit and philanthropy. After his death the merchants of New York presented to the Chamber of Commerce a marble bust of him.

Says the New York Times: "Many stories are told of his kindness and philanthropy. He was regarded as the Peter Cooper of his day. It is related of him that he never forgot an old friend, however humble he might be. By his imperative request his funeral was of the simplest character possible. Only the relatives and the most intimate friends of the family were invited, and only a single carriage followed the hearse to the grave."

Says William M. Thayer, in his book entitled "Tact, Push and Principle:" "When Jonathan Goodhue, of New York, died, the din of traffic was hushed in the streets, commerce felt the loss keenly, and merchant and artisan crowded around his bier at the funeral. The Mayor and other officials were there. Merchant princes were there. The poor and unfortunate were there too. None were so high and none so lowly as not to do him reverence. His character drew them there. The speaker said on that occasion, 'It is the recognized worth of private character which has extorted this homage. It is the man himself,—the pure, the high-minded, righteous man who adorned our nature, who dignified the mercantile profession, who was superior to his station, his riches, his exposures, and made the common virtues more respected and venerable than shining talents or public honors, who vindicated the dignity of common life and carried a large, high and noble spirit into ordinary affairs, who made men recognize something inviolable and awful even in the private conscience and thus gave sanctity and value to our common humanity. This was the power, this the attraction, this the value of Jonathan Goodhue's life. He has made men believe in virtue. He has made them honor character more than station or wealth. He has illustrated the possible purity, disinterestedness and elevation of a mercantile life. He has shown that a rich man can enter the kingdom of heaven. He stands up by acclamation as the model Christian merchant.' "

He died in New York City, Nov. 24, 1848.

865. NATHANIEL, b. in Newburyport, Mass., 1814; at the age of 16 he became a sailor on board a whaleship, on which he was wrecked, but was rescued by an English vessel and was carried to England. He returned to America; in 1838 he sailed with Com. Wilkes on the Southern Polar Exploring Expedition, and in his report Com. Wilkes speaks of him as "Nathaniel Goodhue, Captain of the Foretop." He returned to Newburyport after his voyage around the world with Com. Wilkes; he was now 25 years old; he then made several voyages to different parts of the world; he was always fond of adventure. Being in England when Sir John Franklin's Expedition to the Arctic Regions was organized, he volunteered his services, and being a stalwart, experienced sailor, he was accepted. In a brief letter to his mother he says: "I have shipped in the Expedition of Sir John Franklin for the Arctic Ocean, to discover the long sought North Western Passage. I have been to the South till the ice line stopped me; now I turn to the North,—the frozen North. It is a long and dangerous voyage, mother, and if we meet not again on earth, let us meet in heaven. Farewell! From your affectionate and dutiful son, Nathaniel Goodhue." The Expedition sailed, and was last heard from July 26, 1845. All perished in the Polar Sea, including the hardy heroic sailor, Nathaniel Goodhue.

Wendell Philips says of him: "Mr. Bigelow was a man of generous culture and devotedly interested in all social and reform questions. . . . No test of patriotism ever found him wanting. No duty to unpopular opinions was ever too hard for his sturdy fidelity to conscience and his convictions. His single-hearted, instinctive loyalty to truth made him clear sighted in every emergency, and gave him a judgment it was always safe to follow. He was one of the two whole souled men who made their way over the New York hills that December morning to be present at the funeral of John Brown. A day spent under his roof made us more intimately acquainted with him than months of ordinary intercourse. We well remember in our last conversation his cordial joy that he had been permitted to see so much of the triumph of the principles he loved and his assured faith in the future."

SEE FAMILY 2.

The copy of a Valedictory and Monitory Writing left by Sarah Goodhue, the wife of Joseph Goodhue, of Ipswich, in N. E., and found after her decease; full of spiritual experiences, sage counsels, pious instructions, and serious exhortations.

Directed to her husband and children, with other near relations and friends, and profitable to all that may happen to read the same.

Sarah Goodhue was the youngest daughter of Elder John Whipple; she married Jos. Goodhue, July 13, 1661, and died July 23, 1681, three days after giving birth to two children.

Dear and loving Husband, if it should please the Lord to make a sudden change in thy family, the which I know not how soon it may be, and I am fearful of it. Therefore in a few words I would declare something of my mind, lest afterwards I should have no opportunity. I cannot but sympathize and pity thy condition seeing thou has a great family of children and some of them small, and if it should please the Lord to add to thy number one more or two, be not discouraged, although it should please the Lord to deprive thee of thy weak help which is so near and dear unto thee. Trust in the living God, who will be an help to the helpless, and a father to the motherless.

My desire is, that if thou art so contented, to dispose of two or three of my children. If it please the Lord that I should be delivered of a living child, son or daughter, my desire is that my father and mother should have it, if they please; I freely bequeath and give it to them.

And also my desire is that my cousin Symond Stacy should have John, if he please. I freely bequeath and give to him for his own if thou art willing. And also my desire is that my cousin Catharine Whipple should have Susannah, which is an hearty girl, and will quickly be helpful to her, and she may be helpful to the child, to bring her up. These, or either of these I durst trust their care under God, for the faithful discharge of that which may be for my children's good and comfort, and I hope to thy satisfaction. Therefore, if they be willing to take them, and to deal well by them, answer my desire I pray thee, thou has been willing to answer my request formerly, and I hope now thou wilt, this being the last, so far as I know.

Honored and most loving father and mother, I cannot tell how to express your fatherly and motherly love towards me and mine. It hath been so great and in several kinds, for the which, in a poor requital, I give you hearty and humble thanks, yet trusting in God that he will enable you to be a father and mother to the motherless. Be not troubled for the loss of an unworthy daughter, but rejoice in the grace of God that there is hope of rejoicing together hereafter in the place of everlasting joy and blessedness.

Brothers and sisters all, hearken and hear the voice of the Lord, that by his sudden providence doth call aloud on you to prepare yourselves for that swift and sudden messenger of death; that no one of you may be found without a wedding garment; a part and portion in Jesus Christ; the assurance of the love of God, which will enable you to leave this world, and all your relations, though never so near and dear for the everlasting enjoyment of the great and glorious God, if you do fear him in truth.

The Private Society to which, while here, I did belong, if God by his providence come amongst you, and begin by death to break you, be not discouraged, but be strong in repenting, faith and prayers, with the lively repeatal of God's counsels declared unto you by his faithful messengers. O pray, each for another, and with one another, that so in these threatening times of storms and trouble you may be found more precious than gold tried in the fire. Think not a few hours time in your approaches to God misspent, but consider seriously with yourselves to what end God lent to you any time at all. This surely I can through grace now say: that of the time that there I spent, through the blessing of God, I have no cause to repent, no not in the least.

O my children all, which in pains and care have cost me dear, unto you I call to come and take what portion your dying mother will bestow upon you; many times by experience it hath been found that the dying words of parents have left a living impression upon the breasts of children. O my children be sure to set the fear of God before your eyes; consider what you are by nature, miserable sinners, utterly lost and undone; and that there is no way and means whereby you can come out of this miserable estate, but by the mediation of the Lord Jesus Christ. He died a reproachful death that every poor humbled and true repenting sinner, by faith on God through him, might have everlasting life. O my children, the best counsel a poor dying mother can give you is to get a part and portion in the Lord Jesus Christ that will hold when all these things fail. O let the Lord Jesus Christ be precious in your sight.

O children, neighbors and friends, I hope I can by experience truly say that Christ is the best, most precious, most durable portion that all or any of you can set your hearts' delight upon. I forever desire to bless and praise the Lord that he hath opened mine eyes to see the emptiness of these things and mine own, and to behold the fullness and riches of grace that is in the Lord Jesus Christ. To that end, my children, I do not only counsel you, but in the fear of the Lord I charge you all to read God's Word, and pray unto the Lord that he would be pleased to give you hearts and wisdom to improve the great and many privileges that the Lord is at present pleased to afford unto you; improve your youthful days unto God's service, your health and strength whilst it lasteth, for you know not how soon your health may be turned into sickness, your strength into weakness, and your lives into death; as death cuts the tree of your life down, so will it lie; as death leaveth you, so judgment will find you out. Therefore be persuaded to agree with your adversary quickly, whilst you are in the way of these precious opportunities; be sure to improve the lively dispensations of the Gospel; give good attention unto sermons preached in publick, and to sermons repeated in private.

Endeavor to learn your father's hand, that you may read over those precious sermons that he hath taken pains to write and keep from the mouths of God's lively messengers, and in them there are lively messages. I can, through the blessing of God, along with them say, that they have been lively unto me; and if you improve them aright, why not to all of you! God upbraideth none of the seed of Jacob that seek his face in truth. My children, be encouraged in this work, you are in the bond of the covenant; although you may be breakers of covenant, yet God is a merciful keeper of covenant.

Endeavor as you grow up to own and renew your covenant, and rest not if God give you life, but so labour to improve all the advantages that God is pleased to afford you, that you may be fit to enjoy the Lord Jesus Christ in all his ordinances. What hath the Lord Jesus given himself for you ? if you will lay hold of him by true faith and repentance. And what will you be backward to accept of his gracious and free offers, and not to keep in remembrance his death and sufferings, and to strengthen your weak faith. I thank the Lord in some measure I have found that ordinance a life-making ordinance unto my soul. Oh, the smiles and loving embraces that they miss of that hold off and will not be in such near relation unto their Head and Saviour. The Lord grant that Christ may be your portions all.

My children, one or two words I have to say more: In the first place, be sure to carry well to your father; obey him, love him, follow his instructions and example, be ruled by him, take his advice, and have a care of grieving him. For I must testify the truth unto you, and I may call some of you to testify against yourselves, that your father hath been loving, kind, tender-hearted towards you all, both for your temporal and spiritual good.

You that are grown up cannot but see how careful your father is when he cometh home from his work to take the young ones up into his wearied arms; by his loving carriage and care towards those, you may behold as in a glass, his tender care and love to you every one as you grow up. I can safely say, that his love was so to you all, that I cannot say which is the child that he doth love the best. But further I may testify unto you, that this is not all that your father hath been doing for you, and that some of you may bear me witness that he hath given you many instructions, which hath been to the end your souls might enjoy happiness; he hath reproved you often for your evils, laying before you the ill event that would happen unto you if you did not walk in God's ways, and give your minds to do his will, to keep holy his Sabbaths, to attend unto hearing it preached with a desire to profit by it, and declaring unto you this way that he had experienced to get good by it; that was to pray unto the Lord for his blessing with and upon it, that it might soak into the heart and find entertainment there; and that you should meditate upon it; and he hath told you meditation was as the key to open the door to let you in, or that into your heart, that you might find the sweetness of God's word.

Furthermore, my children, be encouraged in this work. Your father hath put up many prayers with ardent desires and tears to God on behalf of you all; which if you walk with God, I hope you will find gracious answers and showers of blessing from those bottled tears for you. O carry it well to your father, that he may yet be encouraged to be doing and pleading for your welfare. Consider that the Scriptures holdeth forth many blessings to such children that obey their parents in the Lord, but there are curses threatened to the disobedient.

My children, in your life and conversation live godly, walk soberly, modestly and innocently; be diligent, and be not hasty to follow new fashions, and the pride of life, that now too much abound. Let not pride betray the good of your immortal souls.

And if it please the Lord you live to match yourselves, and to make your choice; Be sure you choose such as first do seek the kingdom of heaven.

My first, as thy name is Joseph,
 Labor so in knowledge to increase
 As to be freed from the guilt of thy sins
 And enjoy eternal peace.

Mary, labor to be so arrayed
 With the hidden man of the heart
 That with Mary thou mayest find Thou hast chosen the better part.

William, thou hadst that name
 For thy grandfather's sake,
 Labor so to tread in his steps
 As over sin conquest thou mayest make.

Sarah, Sarah's daughter thou shalt be
 If thou continuest in doing well.
 Labor so in holiness among the daughters to walk
 As that thou mayest excel.
 So my children all, if I must be gone
 I with tears bid you all — Farewell.
 The Lord bless you all.

Now dear husband, I can do no less than to turn unto thee; and if I could I would naturally mourn with thee.

And in a poor requital of all thy kindness, if I could, I would speak some things of comfort to thee, whilst thou dost mourn for me. A tender hearted, affectionate, and entire loving husband thou hast been to me several ways. If I should but speak of what I have found as these outward things; I being but weakly natured in all my burthens thou has willingly with me sympathized and cheerfully thou hast helped me bear them, which although I was but weak-natured, and so the more unable to go through those troubles in my way, yet thou hast by thy cheerful love to me helped me forward in a cheerful frame of spirit.

But when I come to speak or consider in thy place, thy great pains and care for the good of my soul; this twenty years experience of thy love to me in this kind hath so enstamped it upon my mind, that I do think that there never was a man more truly kind to a woman. I desire forever to bless and praise the Lord, that in mercy to my soul, he by his providence ordered that I should live with thee in such a relation; therefore, dear husband, be comforted in this (although God by his providence break that relation between us, that he gave being to at first), that in thy place thou has been a man of knowledge to discharge to God and my soul that scripture commanded duty, which by the effects in me wrought through the grace of God, thou mayest behold with comfort our prayers not hindered, but a gracious answer from the Lord, which is of great price and reward. Although my being gone be thy loss, yet I trust, in and through Jesus Christ, it will be my gain.

Was it not to this end that the Lord was pleased to enable thee and give thee in heart to take (as an instrument) so much pains for his glory and my eternal good, and that it might be thy comfort. As all thy reading of scriptures and writing of sermons, and repeating of them over to me, that although I was necessarily often absent from the public worship of God, yet by thy pains and care to the good of my soul, it was brought home unto me. And blessed be the Lord who hath set home by the operation of his spirit, so many repeals of precious sermons and prayers and tears for me and with me for my eternal good. And now let it be thy comfort under all; go on and persevere in believing in God and praying fervently unto God. Let not thy affectionate heart become hard, and thy tears dried away; and certainly the Lord will render a double portion of blessing upon thee and thine.

If thou couldst ask me a reason why I thus declare myself, I can answer no-other but this, that I have had of late a strong persuasion upon my mind, that by sudden death I should be surprised, either at my travail, or soon after it; the Lord fit me for himself.

Although I could be very willing to enjoy thy company and my children longer, yet if it be the will of the Lord that I must not, I hope I can say cheerfully "The will of the Lord be done." This hath been often my desire and prayer.

Further, if thou couldst ask me why I did not discover some of these particulars of my mind to thee before, my answer is, because I knew that thou wert tender hearted towards me, and therefore I would not create thee needless trouble.

Oh, dear husband, dearest of all my bosom friends, if by sudden death I must part from thee, let not thy trouble and cares that are on thee make thee to turn aside from the right way:

*O dear heart, if I must leave thee and thine here behind,
Of my natural affection here is my heart and hand.*

Be courageous, and on the living God bear up thy heart in so great a breach as this.

SARAH GOODHUE.

Dear Husband, if by sudden death I am taken away from thee, there is infolded among thy papers something that I have to say to thee and others.

Francis Goodhue was the son of William and grandson of William, the first emigrant, was b. Oct. 4, 1678. He graduated at Harvard Col., 1699. He studied for the ministry and at the age of 27 was settled as pastor over a Presbyterian Church, at Jamaica, Long Island, which is claimed by some to have been the first regularly organized Presbyterian church in the United States.

He died at Rehoboth, Mass., Sept. 15, 1707, while on his way to visit Ipswich, his native place. See [22].

The following epitaph upon him was published in the News Letter, No. 996, Feb. 28, 1723, and from the signature "S. S." was undoubtedly written by that eminent jurist and writer, Judge Sewall.

THE ADVICE AND COUNSEL OF DEA. SAMUEL GOODHUE.

Dea. Samuel Goodhue was the youngest son of Joseph Goodhue and grandson of William Goodhue, the first emigrant from England, 1635. Dea. Samuel Goodhue was born in Ipswich, Mass., April 6, 1696, and died at Hollis, N. H., Nov. 7, 1785, in the 90th year of his age. This address was written but a short time before his death.

Beloved Children and Descendants:

As it hath pleased the God of Heaven in sparing mercy to lengthen out my life beyond the most of my fellow creatures, unto the ninetieth year of my age: and hath increased the branches of my family to a great number, and as you are scattered so far from me to the East, West, North and South, that I can never expect to see you together in this life: for doubtless the time of my departure is at hand: therefore, I write to you having a great concern for your precious souls lest you should get lost in the wilderness of this world which is so full of snares and temptations to keep you out of the way to heaven, which if you miss you are undone forever without any hope of mercy.

It is likely you are encumbered with the cares of this world; but do not let the cares of the body hinder the care you ought to take of your souls; for if you should gain the whole world and lose your own souls, the loss can never be made up, for what can a man gain in exchange for his soul. The blessed Son of God had such pity for souls, and such a desire for their salvation, that he came down from heaven, laid down his life, and shed his precious blood upon the cross to make an atonement to the justice of God the Father for the sins and offenses of all such as believe and trust in him, as true and humble penitents. By our unhappy fall we were all condemned by the righteous law of God which was broken by our first parents and by us in them; and we must have suffered the wrath of God forever had not our blessed Redeemer as a compassionate bondsman appeared and paid the debt for us. If we thankfully accept of what he hath done for us, if we comply with his blessed invitations and come to him in the way of true, humble, thankful obedience to his commands as weary, heavy laden sinners, we may expect rest: for Christ hath promised to give it to all such as come, and those that come he will in no wise cast out. I hope some of you have been convinced, by the Holy Spirit, of sin and the need of a Saviour, and have complied with his blessed invitations, and if you have received the Lord Jesus Christ by taking him for the pattern of your lives, being careful to imitate his blessed example by doing the will of God the Father. But those of you who are now in a state of nature consider your danger for if you should be called away by death, before you are renewed by grace your future state will be ever hopeless. Remember what Christ told Nicodemus, "except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." Therefore, delay not, but improve the present opportunity in seeking to God for his Holy Spirit, to convince you, to enlighten your minds, to renew and sanctify your wills and make you new creatures, that you may answer the end of your creation, which was to glorify God and enjoy him forever, which I hope you have been taught in your catechism, which I advise you to keep much in mind and meditate upon, for here is your duty and interest so strongly united that if you glorify God you may be sure to enjoy him forever, for those that honor God he will honor with a blessed reward of grace to prepare them for everlasting happiness in heaven.

Remember you were made by God and for him, and have, I trust, been given up by your parents in baptism. Consider the many bonds and obligations you are under to love and serve the God who made you for creating goodness, redeeming love and mercy and for supplying you with breath every moment, which you ought to improve to his glory by praising him for mercies received and seeking to him for mercies needed, for we are all poor needy creatures unable to help ourselves: therefore, we must go to God in Christ for help in every respect, asking in his name for all we want. Therefore, do not live like those heathen who cast off fear, and restrain prayer before God, who are those wicked with whom God is angry every day, who, through pride of their countenance, will not seek God (Ps. vii. : 11 and Ps. x. : 4).

If any of you live in neglect of God and your own souls, consider your danger, for if you continue so until death comes, I can see no hope for you but that you must be cast off forever, for there is no promise of mercy to any but such as ask and seek for it. "Therefore, seek the Lord while he may be found, call upon him while he is near: let the wicked forsake his way and the unrighteous man his thoughts, and turn to the Lord and he will have mercy upon him and abundantly pardon" (Isa. lv. : 6, 7). I advise you to read the whole of the chapter and improve it for your good, in which you may see the loving invitation of a blessed Savior to come to him as the full fountain of life and happiness which is freely offered to you. It is my heart's desire and prayer to God for you all that you all may give glory to God by accepting a blessed Saviour and giving up yourselves to him in an everlasting covenant, never to be forgotten, as it is your duty and interest to do.

Let the Word of God be prized and improved as a perfect rule to walk by, to direct you in the way to heaven. And attend to the preached gospel at all opportunities, and esteem the faithful ministers of the Word very highly in love for their work's sake. Pray to God for his blessing on what you read and hear for your soul's good. Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy and beg of God to give you a true and saving faith in Christ, that you may trust in him alone for the pardon of your sins and the salvation of your souls. Do not say as some lazy, slothful creatures, "we can do nothing" and so rest easy and unconcerned as if you had no souls to care for. I know you can do nothing by all your performances that is the least meritorious, but remember it is your duty to wait upon God in the ways of his appointment by reading, hearing, meditation and prayer, asking and seeking, for God has promised to give his Holy Spirit to them that ask him. If you ask in Christ's name there is hope of obtaining mercy, for God is a God of wonderful goodness and mercy, and to be fond of those that seek him with all their hearts. I have had long experience of his goodness, even from my very infancy, being a fatherless child before I was two years old, and by the mercy of God have been preserved and provided for to this day.

And now my dear children and descendants, I exhort and charge you all to put your trust in a good and gracious God, of whose goodness I have had such long and large experience, for "blessed is the man who trusteth in the Lord and whose hope the Lord is." O, give up yourselves soul and body to this God in an everlasting covenant, and by the help of grace resolve with Joshua that both you and yours will serve the Lord, which is the earnest desire of my soul concerning you.

Let not the morning and evening sacrifice of prayer and praise be neglected by you but take time for the service of God and the good of your souls. Do not be much concerned about your bodies which are mortal and of short continuance, but let your chief care be the glory of God and the good of your souls which must be either happy or miserable forever. If you will take the advice of a blessed Savior to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, you need not fear wanting anything that would be best for you, for "those that fear the Lord shall want no good thing." But do not be idle and slothful, but diligent in some lawful business, and God will bless your labors for a support, if you ask his blessing, which is the duty of all to do. Therefore, take that text for your rule, "In all thy ways acknowledge him and he shall direct thy paths."

And if you take God's directions you will devote yourselves to his service and live to his honor and glory, observing the charge holy David gave to his son Solomon: "to know the God of your fathers and serve him with a perfect heart and a willing mind, for if you seek him he will be found of you, but if you forsake him he will cast you off forever." O, take the warning here given by the man after God's own heart, and seek the Lord with your whole heart, speedily, without delay, lest you should be cast off forever for not improving the present time of life to the glory of God and the good of your souls.

Do not think of living long in the world and so put off the thoughts of death whilst hereafter, for many die in youth. I have sometimes known three or four taken out of one family in the space of one year under twenty years of age, and you are all as much exposed to death as they were, and if you should die before you are renewed by grace, aggravated condemnation will be your ruin. The time present is the only time you are certain of, therefore, improve it in seeking to God for regenerating grace, for except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God. Those of you that are young let your thoughts be much upon death, judgment, and eternity. It will not shorten your lives but it may be the means of quickening you to comply with that command of God, to remember your Creator in the days of your youth. And pray to God to give you an interest in Christ, and enable you to choose him as the happy portion of your souls, which will be better for you than all the world if you had it all in your possession. See the great encouragement you have in these words: "I love them that love me and they that seek me early shall find me." How happy are all those that have the love of God; it is better than to have the love of all the world. O, seek the Lord with all your hearts, for no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly. There are many living witnesses of it who have seen of the wonderful goodness of God, even from their childhood to their old age, for the mercies of God can never be reckoned up by the oldest man living. And now take the advice of your aged father and ancestor, early to give up yourselves to God in an everlasting covenant, never to be forgotten, resolving by the help of grace to devote yourselves wholly to love and serve the God and giver of all your mercies. You cannot begin to serve your Maker too soon, for you know not how soon you may be called away by death, and should this be the case before you have endeavored to answer the end of your creation, which was to glorify God, you can never expect to enjoy him hereafter, for without holiness none can see the Lord. Therefore, pray to God to give you a true and saving faith in Christ that you may comply with his blessed invitation to come to him as the only Savior of sinners, and trust in him for the pardon of all your sins, and for grace to live a life of holy obedience to his commands, for such as come to him he will in no wise cast off, but will make them happy in the enjoyment of himself in heaven forever.

What I have written is with an earnest desire that God may be glorified not only by you who have seen my face in the flesh, but by all my descendants and all others into whose hands these lines may come till time shall be no more, and that you may be brought to consider your duty and interest, and that you may have an hearty love to your glorious Creator and blessed Redeemer, the only worthy object of the highest love of all rational beings.

SAMUEL GOODHUE.

HOLLIS, N. H., 1785.

A BRIEF RELATION OF GOD'S DEALINGS WITH MY SOUL IN EARLY LIFE.

The Scriptures of truth inform me that God is good and I have for a long time been spared to be a witness of his great goodness to me, a poor unworthy creature; and lest I should forget the bonds of God that are upon me, and so prove an ungrateful creature under all the mercies I have received, which I pray I never may, I now record, to the glory of God and for my own quickening, some few of the most remarkable instances of the great goodness of God to me.

But where shall I begin? Surely it must be at my birth. I was born in a land of gospel light, and of religious parents, who gave me up to God in Baptism in my infancy, to receive the seal of the covenant, and although God, in his infinite wisdom, saw meet to take a kind and tender father from me before I was two years old, yet, in his mercy he has made good his precious promise to me, in being a father to the fatherless, who hath taken a merciful care of me ever since, and was pleased to spare the life of my mother who took great pains with me for the good of my soul, supplying my father's place by praying with the family and taking me with her in secret, where she used to pray with me and for me, to teach me the duty of sacred prayer commanded by my blessed Saviour. She showed me the evil of sin and strictly warned me against it, which was a means of putting me upon consideration and seeking to God for mercy. God was also pleased to visit me with a grievous sickness repeatedly, and at one time very remarkably to preserve my life when in great danger of drowning; and at another time when in imminent danger of sudden death by the falling of a tree; and at another time God was pleased to preserve my life; and at another time God was pleased to preserve my life through a long and distressing sickness of which many other young persons died, and one who was very dear to me. All which instances were sanctified as means of making me more thoughtful of my great and last change.

And God, in his infinite mercy, was pleased to give me his convincing Spirit to show me my undone estate by nature, and the danger I was in of perishing forever, which brought me into great distress of soul for more than a year, and the more I read and prayed the more I saw my own vileness, until I was brought almost to despair of mercy, for although I saw there was a Saviour provided yet I was afraid he would never accept of such a vile sinner as I was.

But God, who is rich in mercy and abundant in goodness, was pleased to draw me once more upon my knees to seek him for mercy as one bowed down under the burden of sin, and was pleased to show me that Christ was willing to save all such as come to him under a sense of their sins for help and relief, and that text of Scripture came with power upon me in Matt. xi. : 28, "Come unto me all ye that labor, that are weary and heavy laden, and I will give you rest," which I thought was a call from a blessed Saviour to me to come to him for help and relief; under a sense of sin which lay as a heavy burden upon me, which I longed to be freed from, and several other texts of scripture were impressed upon my mind. And I desire to bless the God of heaven for his great goodness and mercy to such a poor sinful creature as I am, in giving such gracious invitations in his Word, to come to him as an all-sufficient Saviour. The text in John vii. : 37, was very encouraging to me. "In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, if any man thirst let him come unto me and drink," and Rev. xxii. : 17, "The Spirit and the bride say, come, and whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely;" and Isa. lv. : 1, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters; and he that hath no money let him come and buy wine and milk without money and without price;" which texts by the blessed Spirit of God were set home for bringing me off from trusting in any works or righteousness of my own, to trust in Christ alone for my salvation; for the more I read and prayed and strove to keep the law, thinking in some measure to obtain the favor of God and the pardon of sin by my duties, though imperfect, in hopes that what I could not do Christ would do for me; but blessed be God who gave me to see I could not satisfy for any sins past, or keep the law for time to come, for the more I strove to keep the law, the more I saw my own guiltiness, and the need I had of a Saviour, so that I trust by the blessing of God, the law was used as a schoolmaster to bring me to Christ, whom, I hope through grace I was enabled to receive joyfully, for it was the most joyful day that ever I saw, although I had lived above sixteen years before this.

Now, what shall I render to the Lord for all his benefits, especially for his wonderful goodness in bringing me to see the need of a Saviour, and as I trust to accept him with all my heart; for Christ was then precious to my soul and for some considerable time I longed to be with him that I might praise him in a perfect manner and never sin more. "Bless the Lord, O, my soul, and forget not any of his benefits."

APPENDIX E.

[See FAMILY 14.]

In 1748, Dea. Samuel Goodhue, after the death of his first wife, married the widow Rebecca Caldwell.

The following letters were written to "Mr. Abraham Cordwill, living in Ipswich."

This Abraham Cordwill (Caldwell) was, as it seems, a son of Rebecca by her former husband.

From STRAIGHTHAM (STRATHAM, N. H.), June, ye 3, 1748.

Beloved Son and Daughter:

Haveing an oportunity I gladly improve it by making of you a short visit, hoping you are in health, as through the Goodness of our Gracious God we are, for which let us pray God to make us Thankful,—

I would inform you we got safe hom before dark, although we stopt at Rowley, and newbury, and hampton several hours; but your mother was very much tired with her journey but has Got it pretty well over, and Likes very well but a'nt quite weaned, but is got to look towards Ipswich when she can tell which way it lies. But she is so lost about it att sometimes that I bout afraid of her running back without a pilot. I received your letter gladly for which I thank you. But I hope you will write a little Longer the next oportunity for we want to hear from you and to know whether you have heard any thing of your brother Samuel or from any of the other brothers. Take no pattern by my short letter for my Scholars waits for me, therefore I must conclude with our Love to you Both and to brothers and sisters and your children and all friends that count is worth asking after, And in particular to old Mrs. Staniford, and her daughter Martha harris. Wishing the Blessing of God may rest upon you, I remain, your Friend and father,

SAMLL. GOODHUE.

From Stratham, N. H. he removed to Hollis, N. H., where he lived the remainder of his life. From thence five years later he wrote another letter.

HOLLIS, 1753.

Beloved Son :

I just Re'ed your letter in which you have informed us of sore Sickness & Deaths, which is the sorrowful case in this town round about us, for it has never bin such a sickly dying time amongst us before, as has been now of late with the fevers and Throat Distempers. But through the great goodness of a Gracious and Mercifnl God, we are yet spared and in health, for which let us all Joyn with our whole hearts to Bles God and be earnest at the throne of grace, that we improve our Spared lives to the Glory of God, and in making Preparation for an Endless Eternity, which daily we are hasting nearer to. Let it be our Greatest care to be found ready, for many are the warnings that God is giving to us of our mortality.

We want to see you but can't yet; but if it may please God to spare and to continue health we hope it won't be long first; with all our loves to you and yours, and all friends, I remain, your Friend and father,

SAM. GOODHUE.

Lines on the death of Dea. Saml. Goodhue, of Hollis, N. H., 1785; author unknown.

“ Mourn him ye widows and ye fatherless,
 Think how he fed and clothed you from his store,
 Who pitied and relieved you in distress,
 But now your friend and patron is no more.

The lines close as follows:—

This holy man may we all imitate,
 Practice each virtue and all evil hate,
 Mark well the path his willing feet have trod,
 That leads upward to the paradise of God.

Thus when on mortal scenes we close our eyes,
 To joys immortal shall our spirits rise,
 Join our dear kindred in seraphic lays,
 Sing the Redeemer and his boundless grace.

But why fond Muse his virtues try to scan,
 Those did know the Christian, who knew the man.

APPENDIX F.

EXTRACTS FROM THE JOURNAL OF JOSEPH GOODHUE, M. D.

Joseph Goodhue was born in Dunstable, Mass., 1767, and died at Deerfield, Mass. See Family 110.

“I believe my parents were faithful in the discharge of their duty to their children, but I was inclined to evil rather than good. I can recollect times when hearing my father preach, of feeling concerned for my soul's salvation, while quite young, but those feelings soon passed away, like the early dew before the rising sun. I was a very healthy boy, and enjoyed life much as any wicked boy of my age. In Oct., 1775, I went to Cambridge and lived with an uncle of mine who was a captain in the army. I was there more than two months; this gave me a taste for a military life. The next year, in October, my father became the minister of Putney, Vt., and moved his family there. His salary was three hundred dollars a year. He being the first settled minister, he was entitled to 300 acres of wild land in the west part of the town. My oldest brother, Josiah, left for college and entered at Cambridge in 1774, but left the next spring on account of the Revolutionary War; he then engaged in the study of surgery with old doctor Kittredge, of Massachusetts. It fell to my lot to be a farmer. The June after I was 17 years old, I joined a volunteer company, under command of Capt. Blakely, of Brattleboro; went to West Point; trained there a few days; while there was offered a commission in the United States Army, but declined accepting it, having promised my father that I would return home the next fall. From West Point I went down the river to King's Ferry, 20 miles above New York, which was then in possession of the British Army. After remaining there a few days, our regiment was ordered up the Mohawk River to Fort Plain, the Indians having destroyed Cherry Valley, 16 miles south of the fort. The Indians had done their bloody work and went far away before we came there. During this season Gen. Arnold proved a traitor to his country and the ill-fated Andre was taken and executed as a spy.

In the month of November I returned to Putney, and managed my father's farm until I was 23. I then married Martha Clay, daughter of Capt. James Clay, grandfather to Col. George Clay, my son-in-law. About this time Elphann Winchester, the celebrated Restoration preacher, came along. He was a very interesting speaker, and seemed to be devoutly pious and orthodox, except as to the duration of future punishment. With many others, among which was Deacon Parker, of my father's church, I embraced his sentiments. My father was acquainted with Mr. Winchester, but would not hear him preach. One day a near friend of mine asked me if I had Dr. Priestley's works, that had been lately published. I told him I had not. "Well," said he, "if you do not wish to become an infidel you had better not read them." "Why?" said I. "He is an infidel under the mask of Christianity," was his answer. I procured the book and soon became a Unitarian Restorationist.

I commenced housekeeping with my young wife at my father's in the east part of Putney, near the Connecticut River, within sight and but little more than a mile from Westmoreland meeting-house, where I attended meeting for the most part, and heard a minister preach which did not disturb me very much. I had a good farm, a pleasant wife, was very industrious; valued myself in being prompt in paying my debts and in being the neatest farmer in the neighborhood. I sometimes prayed in my family, but not often; soon left off altogether. Thus passed the first ten years after my marriage; during those ten years I added $2,000 to my property. I was not engaged in any speculating. During this time my young wife died, at the age of 27, leaving four children.

My brother, Josiah Goodhue, M. D., advised me to engage in the study of medicine. I leased my farm for three years, put my children under the care of my friend, and engaged in the study with my brother, the first of January after I was thirty-two. After studying with my brother and riding one year and a half, I spent one summer with Dr. Dickerman, of Brattleborough, Vt. In the month of November I went to Hanover, N. H., and attended a course of medical lectures under the celebrated Nathan Smith, who had been a pupil of my brother. The February following I married my late wife, who was the widow of Mindwell Willard, of Putney, and daughter of Dea. Taylor, of Hinsdale, N. H. I lived on the great meadow farm, where my wife lived, until the first of April the following year, then removed to my own farm, the lease having expired. I remained on my farm, practicing some in my profession; as my brother and Dr. Campbell practiced at the middle of the town, my professional business was small.

In Oct., 1802, being in company with Gen. Bradley, who was a Senator in Congress at that time from Vermont, I mentioned to him that I should be pleased to be a member of the U. S. Army, if there was an opportunity for it. The next month he sent to Washington, and soon wrote me there was a vacancy in the medical department at Portsmouth, N. H., and that I could have the place. I wrote him I would accept an appointment. February following, my commission came from President Jefferson, and an order from the Secretary of War to repair to Fort Constitution, Portsmouth Harbor, N. H., and report myself to the commanding officer. On the 14th of April, 1803, I left Putney and my family on the farm, and arrived in Portsmouth on the 16th. The evening I arrived, there commenced one of the greatest snow storms I ever knew. The snow fell, in two days and two nights, two and a half feet on a level and very much drifted. The second day after my arrival at Portsmouth, I went by water three miles to the fort on an island at the mouth of the Piscataqua River. The sea ran mountains high, and I wished myself on terra firma. I was received very politely by the commanding officer Capt. Gates. I spent the season very pleasantly, and concluded I could support my family in the army. October first I obtained permission from the Secretary of War to visit my family; went to Putney the next day. After my arrival, I had an opportunity to sell my farm. The purchaser agreed to pay me $3,000 in two weeks from that time. During that time I disposed of the most of our household furniture, stock, and farming tools, at a year's credit. The man came at the appointed time, and brought the money in gold and silver. It was known generally, in Putney, I had sold. Had plenty of applications, and let all, except a few dollars, before leaving the room. My family went by the way of Boston, in the stage, to Portsmouth. I soon became acquainted in Portsmouth with the doctors and others. None of them were religious, except old Dr. Cutter, a very excellent man.

When I attended meeting it was with the Unitarians. Dr. Parker, their minister, was a gentlemanly man, a fine speaker, and I knew nothing against his moral character; he was considered a very moral man. Mr. Foster, one of his deacons, appeared to be a serious sort of man. I do not recollect any others among them that appeared seriously inclined.

Oct. 20, 1833. My daughter Harriet was married to Doctor Stephen W. Williams, of Deerfield, Mass., by Rev. Dr. Parker, of Portsmouth.

A long time, from 1803 to 1809, keeping no journal, I can only say that my health was good, and that I lived a man of the world, indulged in good eating and drinking, and smoking tobacco; thought but little about a future state: if there was one, that all would be finally happy after a little salutary correction. I did not indulge in profane swearing, for I considered it ungentlemanly; often spent my evenings in card-playing, but not gambling, which was contrary to general orders.

June 6, 1819. Heard Mr. Goodell preach, who became a missionary to Constantinople.

Oct. 7. Attended a prayer-meeting. Oct. 10. Attended a lecture in the school house; Mr. King, now a missionary at Athens, Greece, preached. Oct. 14th. Went to town with Mr. Goodell, who was on his way to Andover. Oct. 15th. Mr. Daniel Temple, from the Theological School at Andover, called at our house and spent the evening. Oct. 17. Went to meeting; heard Mr. Temple preach. 28th. Attended a lecture; Mr. Temple preached; text, "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God." . . . I was brought under deep concern for my soul's salvation, which continued for two weeks. I then heard him preach on "The Return of the Prodigal Son." I believe I had somewhat the feelings of the prodigal returning to his father, when he fell on his neck, the language was to me, "Thy sins are forgiven thee, go thy way and sin no more." My happiness was very great, beyond what I can express. . . . But I have abundant cause to lament my wanderings from my Heavenly Father, the fountain of all good.

May 7, 1819, Mrs. Goodhue, Sophia Shannon, and myself, united with the Rev. Mr. Putnam's church in Portsmouth. 24th, Mrs. Goodhue left for Vermont by the way of Boston. O Lord, wilt Thou please protect her while absent and return her in safety! . . . 18th, commenced leading in the religious exercises, but O, how did my heart tremble before going to meeting, but I looked to God for strength, and He was pleased to grant it. I never felt the power of the Supreme Being as I did in the forenoon, but did not feel that freedom in the afternoon on account of too much confidence in myself. Lord keep me humble from this time. Until I left the army, I continued to lead in religious meetings.

Aug. 3. My wife and Sarah returned to the fort after an absence of ten weeks. Aug. 8. William Harris died; I attended funeral; read the sermon; made short address at the grave. . . .

April 18, 1821. It is 18 years to-day since I came to this place. . . . July 4th, 1821. Cannon fired. Sept. 5. Left the fort with my daughter Harriet (Mrs. Williams) and her two children, for Vermont. 27th. Went to the top of Mt. Holyoke; from the top is one of the noblest views in New England. . . . Oct. 4th. Arrived at the fort. 23. Meeting this evening to consult on reviving the church in this place (New Castle), which was reduced to one member, a Mrs. White. It was reorganized. Mrs. Goodhue and myself removed our relations from Mr. Putnam's church and joined the church in New Castle. No diary kept from this time until Jan. 1, 1824, at which time I left the United States Army and removed to Deerfield, Mass., where my family had been for a year and a half. Six months previous to my leaving the army, I applied to the Secretary of War for a discharge from the service, to take place Jan. 1, 1824, and for leave of absence for three months, which was granted. I repaired to Deerfield, and spent the time with my family. (The writer had served as surgeon in the army, at one post, for more than twenty years.)
